Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: The 103 rejections were discussed. The applicant asserted that the references combined with Marcon were not combinable because the reference of Cherry is directed to genome and the reference of Marcon is directed to FISH which is specific sites which indirectly detect damage. The examiner stated that the reference teach that chromosome damage may be detected in both interphase and metaphase cells. The applicant also asserted that the claims did not teach the TdT labeling. The examiner stated that the limitation was not in the claim. Applicant stated that FISH requires denaturation and annealing of probes. The claim however is directed to a comprising method such that additional steps may be included. Finally, the examiner stated that a claim amendment to TdT would probably not be entered because limitations were not originally presented. However, the examiner noted that Gorczyca did teach the TdT and dNTP labeling for chromosome breakage. The applicant asserted that if it was so obvious why Marcon had not performed such a method. The applicant also argued that the age of the references rendered the claims unobvious. The examiner explained that all of the arguments should be submitted such that they could be made of record. In the response the examiner urged the applicant to provide as many technical reasons why the references were not combinable.
